

University of Georgia – University of Liverpool Faculty Research Exchange Request for Applications

Deadline: Friday, November 2, 2018

General:

In order to further enhance the international research profiles of both institutions, the University of Georgia and the University of Liverpool are pleased to provide funding to support Faculty Research Exchanges. This initiative is sponsored at UGA by the Office of International Education (OIE), and at the University of Liverpool by the International Development Office (IDO). The purpose of the exchange is to facilitate collaborations between the institutions that will result in additional external funding and the generation of high quality scholarly output.

In order to initiate a faculty exchange visit, individual tenured and tenure-track faculty members in any school or college at UGA, or academic staff (excluding PGR's) from all three Faculties at the University of Liverpool should identify a collaborator at the partner institution working in a congruent area of inquiry.

The identified faculty member will be invited to visit the host institution for one business week, inclusive of adjacent weekends, during the academic year. Note that for budgetary reasons the exchanges must take place during the same academic year. During that week s/he will be expected to:

- Share, apply, develop, or fine-tune a joint research agenda.
- Meet with interested faculty in the respective school or college to discuss longer term research collaborations (not necessarily limited to his/her own field of expertise).
- Deliver a lecture (department, school/college, or public) on his or her research.
